ATTACK RESUMED ON ENTIRE FRONT

London, Oct. 24.—(British admiralty wireless)—A Times correspondent with the American forces says in a dispatch to his newspaper today that it would be difficult to exaggerate the violence of the opposition which the first American army is meeting between the Meuse and the Argonne.

"Indeed, slow as the progress is," he writes, "it is quite remarkable when all the circumstances are taken into consideration. Little by little the American divisions are pushing forward and both at Grandpre and east of Landres they can fairly be said to have breached the Kriehilde position.

With the American Armies in France, Oct. 23—(Night)—The Americans, after repulsing a series of heavy counter-attacks, have again assumed the initiative on the front between Grandpre and Meuse.

In a number of closely allied local operations they have re-occupied several positions temporarily ceded to the Germans. These advances have again carried them north of Grandpre, Batheville and Briulles.

The new enemy divisions have been thrown into this front, and there are now more than 30 German divisions opposing the Americans on the front.

With the British Army in France, Oct. 24—New drives between the Scheldt and the Sambre is expected to have wide results, the most important of which will be the complete turning of the Valenciennes line.

On the front from Valenciennes northward to the frontier of Holland, German resistance is stiffening. British patrols have managed to push across the Scheldt at several places north of Tournai.

London, Oct. 24.—The attack was resumed this morning on the whole front between the Sambre-Oise canal and the Scheldt, Field Marshal Haig announced.

Continuing their progress on this front yesterday evening, British troops crossed the Ecaillon river less than two miles west of LeQuesney capturing the village of Beaumidies. The villages of Neuville and Salesches also were occupied. A strong German counter-attack opposite Vendigies was repulsed.

Raismes forest, north of Valenciennes was cleared of the enemy and three villages were recaptured in that region. There was local fighting west of Tournai, without material change. "In sharp fighting yesterday evening on the front south of Valenciennes we drove the enemy from Vendigies wood, and captured Neuville, Salesches and Beaumidies, securing crossings of the Ecaillon at the latter place," the statement said.

"At the close of the day the enemy counter-attacked vigorously opposite Vendigies, supporting the infantry with strong artillery fire. They were repulsed.

"This morning the attack was resumed on the whole front between the Sambre-Oise canal and the Scheldt.

"North of Valenciennes, we cleared the enemy from the forest of Raismes and captured the villages of Thiors, Haute Ricer and Thun.

"There was determined local fighting west of Tournai, without material change."

Text of President Wilson's Reply

Washington, Oct. 24.—The text of President Wilson's reply to Germany follows:

"From the Secretary of State to Charge d'Affaires ad interim in charge of German interests in the United States:

"Department of State, October 23, 1918.
"Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 22d, transmitting a communication under date of the 20th, from the German Government, and to advise you that the President has instructed me to reply thereto as follows:

"Having received the solemn and explicit assurance of the German Government that it unreservedly accepts the terms of peace laid down in his address to the Congress of the United States on the 8th day of January, 1918, and the principles of settlement enunciated in his subsequent addresses, particularly the address of the 27th of Sept. and that it desires to discuss the details of their application, and that this wish and purpose emanated not from those who have hitherto dictated German policy and conducted the present war on Germany's behalf but from Ministers who speak for the majority of the Reichstag and for an overwhelming majority of the German people, and having received also the explicit promise of the present German Government that the humane rules of civilized warfare will be observed both on land and on sea by the German armed forces, the President of the United States feels that he cannot decline to take up with the Governments with which the Government of the United States is associated the question of armistice.

"He deems it his duty to say again, however, that the only armistice he would feel justified in submitting for consideration would be one which should leave the United States and the Powers associated with her in a position to enforce any arrangements that may be entered into, and to make a renewal of hostilities on the part of Germany impossible.

"The President, therefore, has transmitted his correspondence with the present German authorities to the Governments with which the Government of the United States is associated as a belligerent, with the suggestion that, if these Governments are disposed to effect peace upon the terms and principles indicated, their military advisers and the military advisers of the United States shall be asked to submit to the Governments associated against Germany the necessary terms of such an armistice as will fully protect the interests of the peoples involved and insure to the associated Governments the unrestricted power to safeguard and enforce the details of the peace to which the German Government has agreed, provided they deem such an armistice possible from a military point of view. Should such terms of armistice be suggested, their acceptance by Germany will afford the best concrete evidence of her unequivocal acceptance of the terms and principles of peace from which the whole action proceeds.

"The President would deem himself lacking in candor did he not point out in the frankest possible terms the reason why extraordinary safeguards must be demanded. Significant and important as the constitutional changes seem to be which are spoken of by the German Foreign Secretary in his note of the 20th of October, it does not appear that the principle of a Government, responsible to the German people, has yet been fully worked out, or that any guarantees either exist or are in contemplation that the alterations of principle and of practice now partially agreed upon will be permanent.

"Moreover, it does not appear that the heart of the present difficulty has been reached. It may be that future wars have been brought under the control of the German people, but the present war has not been; and it is with the present war that we are dealing.

"It is evident that the German people have no means of commanding the acquiescence of the military authorities of the empire in the popular will; that the power of the King of Prussia to control the policy of the empire is unimpaired; that the determining initiative still remains with those who have hitherto been the masters of Germany.

"Feeling that the whole peace of the world depends now on plain speaking and straightforward action, the President deems it his duty to say, without any attempt to soften what may seem harsh words, that the nations of the world do not and cannot trust the word of those who have hitherto been the masters of German policy, and to point out once more that in concluding peace and attempting to undo the infinite injuries and injustices of this war the Government of the United States cannot deal with any but veritable representatives of the German people who have been assured of a genuine constitutional standing as the real rulers of Germany.

"If it must deal with the military masters and the monarchical autocrats of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later in regard to the international obligations of the German Empire, it must demand, not peace negotiations, but surrender. Nothing can be gained by leaving this essential thing unsaid.

"Accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration.

ROBERT LANSING.
"Mr. Frederik Oederlin, Charge d'Affaires of Switzerland ad interim, in charge of German interests in the United States."

WILL ATTACK CONSTANTINOPLE UNLESS TURKEY SURRENDERS

By Raymond Clapper.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Turkey must surrender unconditionally or succumb to an allied drive on Constantinople.

Turk agents in Switzerland are in touch with allied representatives according to an authoritative diplomatic source here today. Complete surrender is being demanded of Tewfik's government. Unless this demand is complied with on short order, allied forces will move on Constantinople.

Greek and allied troops have prepared themselves for a rapid push across the Dardanelles-Adrianople line. They are being held in readiness and are amply equipped for a short fight. Occupation of Constantinople would only be a matter of days, it was stated in diplomatic quarters.

We expect definite developments from these negotiations within a few days," the United Press was told. "The allies conditions are not met with short delay. Turkey's chief means of getting munitions and supplies from Germany is seriously threatened. Towfik Pasha is holding out for guarantees that Turkey be permitted independent existence in Asia Minor. The allies insistence that Constantinople and Palestine be severed from the Turkish empire is also proving a bitter pill for Tewfik to swallow. He is apparently reconciled, however, to the loss of Greek Islands in the Mediterranean. Allies will accept only those terms imposed on Bulgaria, it is stated. Details of an armistice will be left to General Allenby and General D'Esterre. Formation of a joint allied commission to supervise demobilization in Turkey and to assist in restoring order is being insisted upon in allied quarters. Pillage and massacre will be likely if disgruntled and hungry Turk soldiers are turned loose on the country, diplomats say.

Greece, with the allies, will continue to make war on the Turk until they can impose a fate like that which came upon Bulgaria, semi-official advisers to the Greek legation here stated.

"The enthusiastic Greek troops are waiting for the order to continue their successful advance to stab the heart of the Turkish empire," one cable declared. It described the valor of the Greek troops in Macedonia. Testimonials from various allied leaders lauding the fighting quality of Greek forces, have been received at the legation.

SKY IS FULL OF AIRPLANES ON THE BATTLE FRONT

BY FRED S. FERGUSON.

With the American Armies in France, October 23.—(Night)—The first real sunshine in weeks resulted today in the most bitter fighting in the air. The sky was full of airplanes.

Two big expeditions bombed the German rear areas this afternoon.

More than 150 American planes in one formation, including sixty bombing machines, swept over the Buzancy region. Tons of explosives were dropped. Railway yards and woods were deluged with bombs.

In the past 24 hours, Lieut. Chambers of Tennessee, has brought down two hostile planes, and Lieutenants Rickenbacker, Fevers and Wright, and Captain Grant, one each.

Lieutenants Woolsey, Manning, Humes and Colson encountered and brought down four Fokkers in flames, escaping without injury.

HUN LEADERS TRY TO BOLSTER UP ARMY MORALE

With the French Army in France, Oct. 24.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in an order to German officers in the field, referring to negotiations for an armistice, declares he approves the peace moves and is obliged to support the government. He asks that the confidence reposed in him in the days of success be continued.

The German crown prince, in an order to the group of armies under his command, reminds the officers of their responsibility they incur when they lose a position or modify the line in any way without orders. Copies of the documents have fallen into the hands of the French.

"Political events of the past few days," says von Hindenburg, "have produced the most profound impression upon the army, notably upon the officers. It is my duty to support the government instituted by his majesty."

"I approve the steps taken toward peace. The German army has a superiority over all others in that the troops and officers have never engaged in politics. We desire to adhere to that principle. I expect that the confidence that was accorded to me in the days of success will be all the stronger now."

The order of the crown prince is shorter and almost curt. It says:

"The exchange of diplomatic notes gives me the occasion to recall my order according to which each officer in command engages his responsibility when he loses a position or modifies his line of resistance without express orders."

These documents were taken from the Fifth Bavarian division.

GERMANY MUST PAY PRICE OF PEACE OR FIGHT

Washington, Oct. 24.—Marshal Foch, together with American and allied commanders, left by President Wilson to apply armistice terms have agreed upon a course tantamount to Germany's unconditional surrender if they are accepted.

From an authoritative source, it was learned today these terms are essentially as follows:

Evacuation of Alsace-Lorraine.

Evacuation of Prussian Poland.

Cessation of all munition making to be insured by committees of allied officials who will be installed in all factories at Essen and other points.

Surrender of the submarine fleet.

Occupation of all German battleships by allied naval officers.

The provisions of the armistice have been drafted to embody the foregoing points and to insure completely against any resumption of warfare by Germany either on land or sea.

Precautions were included to prevent Germany utilizing the armistice for manufacture of war materials with a view of continuing the fighting should peace negotiations fail.

It is accepted of course that France and Belgium must be completely cleared of enemy troops.

British dispatches today laid emphasis on the naval requirements of an armistice, to limit German sea power and guarantee against future naval outrages.

Secretary Daniels refused to make any comment or give any outline of what American terms are in this respect.

By ROBERT J. BENDER.

Washington, Oct. 24.—"Germany must quit cold," now—or fight the war to a bloody finish.

She can have peace if she chooses to accept allied terms; but, in any way the situation is viewed, her quitting will be a surrender.

It was stated authoritatively today that the President's reply may be regarded as final in that he thinks that there is nothing more to be said or done until Germany replies.

That was how the national capital interpreted generally the joint announcement of President Wilson's peace answer to Germany and the official fact that over 2,000,000 yanks had been embarked to aid in finishing the war by force should Germany elect to fight on.

The next move is up to the allies. If they are disposed to act on the basis of the president's peace principles, the allied commanders—with General Pershing—will frame an armistice which would constitute in effect a surrender for Germany. Probably war aims and peace terms will be cleared in a conference soon, wherein President Wilson will have representation. The armistice terms are probably already stated through the Versailles conference and are expected to be announced soon.

Germany has two alternatives. The first is that the kaiser will abdicate. If this is done, Germany can be free to accept an armistice, which will make her powerless to fight on, but which does not carry with it the demand to "surrender." The second is, according to Wilson, that if the kaiser and his murder masters—the present German government—remain in power and if the United States and the allies must now or later deal with them, then "surrender" alone can be accepted. "Surrender" would carry with it such terms as to nullify the autocratic power of Germany.

The president held his terms to be sufficiently met to justify his passing on to the allies the German request for an armistice.

Should Germany not find the present situation acceptable, then her only course is to fight it out. America and the allies are ready for that. The two million troops shipment march has been passed and the general staff is now speeding plans that mean the utter crushing of Germany should she decide the price of peace is too great.

The note was received with varying emotions. The general feeling was one of approval. But there was strain of criticism, from such opponents of the president's course, as Senator Lodge. He, for instance, felt the president should not have taken Germany's word to the extent of passing on to the allies the armistice proposal.

On the other hand there was applause in many quarters that the president had put into the note the word "surrender."

The president served notice that the only armistice plan he is suggesting to the allies is one absolutely safeguarding United States—allied military supremacy—one making it impossible for Germany to renew hostilities and tantamount to complete surrender on her enemy's terms.

Military men have said that peace rested upon the German government decision as to the price she is to pay. The general thought here is that she will read in American Allied preparations for 1919 the fact that she cannot escape invasion and a decisive military defeat, even though her armistice is still functioning as a unit.

The president cast doubt on the thoroughness and effectiveness of reforms Germany claimed to have made in her political machine. He admitted these reforms might help prevent future wars but said they did not go far enough in dealing with the present war. In other words regardless of what reforms have been actually made or undertaken the kaiser and his autocracy are still the present German government.

Because of his insistence on treating with that government at peace table, President Wilson declared it would be impossible to do

No Such Luck.

A famous British general possessed of literary leanings, in the course of an address in Edinburgh some years ago, had occasion to remark that he had kissed the "muses." The printer, thinking he could more accurately estimate the probabilities, made it appear that the gallant soldier had kissed the "nurses." In his letter of correction, almost in a spirit of regret, the general made it clear that he had had no such luck!

The Refugee

By VICTORIA MAPLETON

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

Jabez Hull was never happy unless he was trying into the business of other people. Gossip was balm to his soul, giving advice a habit, bossing things the height of felicity. He had tried his arts on his half cousin, Mrs. Winsted, and her daughter, Dorothy, but had been promptly squelched. They despised his mean, interfering nature and he got to realize it and rarely visited them.

Aleck Drury, also a cousin of Mrs. Winsted, was just the reverse. He was gentle hearted, full of quixotic ideas and deemed it a favor and a blessing to be near Mrs. Winsted and Dorothy. He was rheumatic, and in certain weather got about with difficulty. The widow had fixed up a little two-room cottage at the rear of the lot for Aleck, and there he lived.

One evening a cold rain caused him to hurry in crossing the 300-foot space between the two houses. Suddenly he stumbled over an obstacle in his path and went headlong.

"Gracious!" exclaimed Aleck. "It's a man!" He knelt by the side of the prostrate figure, to make out that the insensible stranger was arrayed in the garb of the convicts at the penitentiary, 20 miles away.

"Now what am I ever to do!" he so- liloquized. "He's soaked through, his face is bleeding. He is either stunned or sick. I suppose my duty is to call the authorities, and there's a standing reward of $100 for the return of an escaped convict. Poor fellow! He probably has no home, no friends. Well, I'll be one to him, for tonight, anyhow."

Aleck carried the stranger bodily to the little old cottage. He began to shiver and talk deliriously. Aleck removed his wet clothing and got him to bed. He was in a raging fever and delirious by daylight.

"He must be a convict," reflected Aleck, for when he went out into the garden a neighbor informed him that a man had escaped from the prison the night previous.

Aleck bundled up the convict garb and hid it away. He told Mrs. Winsted of a charge, ill and friendless. Mrs. Winsted administered some homemade remedies and Dorothy brought some delicacies. She was greatly drawn to the helpless, handsome looking stranger, whose ravings, vague as they were, betokened intelligence and good breeding.

For nine days the sick man lay in fever and stupor most of the time. Dorothy would relieve Aleck while he attended to his garden chores, and would sit at the couch fanning the patient or placing cold bandages on his head.

"Cousin Mary," spoke Aleck one morning, near a sheltering hedge. "I've got to reveal a secret to you," and he narrated the details of his discovery of the stranger.

"A convict!" shuddered Mrs. Winsted.

"Yes, cousin," replied Aleck, "and because of that fact, and because I have observed that Dorothy is getting deeply interested in him, I want you to help me in some plan to get him away from here."

"Let's think it over," said Mrs. Winsted, quite agitated. There was a rustle on the other side of the hedge, and eavesdropping Jabez Hull started at a fast gallop for the town.

He returned in an hour. Dorothy gently talking to the convalescent, was surprised as Jabez burst into the room, followed by an officer.

"There's the convict, and see that I get my hundred dollars!" cried the avaricious Jabez.

"Shame on you!" burst forth from Dorothy. "At least be human enough to spare a very sick man a shock that might kill him."

"Why, I think I understand," spoke the invalid, weakly, but with eagerness. "I was just about to explain to my kind nurse here how I came to be a burden to herself and her friends. The convict you take me for met me some distance from here, and at the point of a pistol forced me to change clothes with him. I fell into a pit amid the storm, and I remember little since. I am Willis Thorne, and the son of Senator Thorne of Rushville."

"Why, he's the millionaire manufacturer's son!" exclaimed Jabez, sneaking from the house.

"We will inform your relatives that you are here, and safe," suggested Aleck.

"Yes, but I don't think I had better be moved until I feel strong and well again—do you?"

Dorothy flushed pink at the expression in those questioning eyes, grateful and tender at the same time. Aleck retired with a chuckle.

"I wasn't wrong," he told himself gloomily. "I never was in love in my life, but those two—well, may they be happy all their lives!"

25 COUNTIES OVER, 20 MORE SEE W. S. S. GOAL

Columbus, O.—(Special).—While 25 Ohio counties have sold the cash War Savings Stamp quota assigned for the year by the United States treasury department, an additional 20 counties have reported War Savings Stamp sales in amounts sufficient to place them beyond the per capita allotment to Oct. 3. This assures exceeding the year's quota in these counties before Dec. 1st.

The per capita War Savings Stamp quota assigned by the government in Ohio this year is $20. Per capita quota of cash sales to Oct. 3 was $15.39. Average cash per capita sales to that date for the 88 counties reached $13.93. Fifty-two of the state's counties had sales which placed them beyond the average.

Although a number of these counties are beyond the average, or, in other words, are not falling behind what they are expected to sell to date, nevertheless there remains necessity for tremendous effort before the per capita quota of $20 is attained. For instance, while Franklin county, Columbus, is above the average, yet there remains to be sold in the next ten weeks more than $1,600,000 of these small government securities.

While 25 of the 52 counties listed below have absorbed the War Savings quota, sales continue to be very good in these counties, which indicates an appreciation of the public of an opportunity to be of patriotic service to the nation and to help themselves to the world's best investment.

Cash sales of War Savings Stamps in Ohio to Oct. 3 approximated $75,000,000. The natural "roll-up" in sales from month to month prompts the Ohio War Savings Committee to express confidence in the state's chances to exceed the full quota before the close of the year.

Reproduced below are the cash sales figures and per capita for the first 52 Ohio counties in their relative standing:

Biblical War Bread.

The Scriptures give us many lessons in thrift, according to a writer in Thrift Magazine. Ezekiel warned the children of Israel that during the siege of Jerusalem they would have to be thrifty. He said: "Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof."—Ezekiel 4:3. The Bible shows that Ezekiel ordered the children of Israel to eat their meat by weight, and even thus only "from time to time."

The Ohio War Board Says Today

Why everyone not only should, but must, do his utmost to conserve coal is made very clear, when the facts of the nation's big war job are understood.

The war program of the nation demands 80,000,000 more tons of coal this year than last.

There is a call for 8,000,000 tons of steel ships, and to manufacture and deliver the steel for them will take 14,000,000 tons of coal.

Three million tons are needed to carry our average monthly delivery of troops to Europe, and 4,000,000 tons to transport their supplies.

One hour of intensive artillery action at the front uses up 1,800 tons of steel, which it takes 7,200 tons of coal to produce.

Obviously the only thing to do is to SAVE COAL.

QUARANTINE IS LIFTED IN XENIA BY DR. R. H. GRUBE

Dr. R. H. Grube, the city health officer, issued an order Thursday morning lifting the ban on public meetings in Xenia. Next Sunday the churches may resume services and on Monday the schools may open according to this new order of the health officer. Dr. Grube requests, however, that all persons having colds stay away from church, school and other public gatherings.

While Dr. Grube estimates that there are still about a hundred cases of influenza in the city he feels that the crest of the epidemic has passed. At present there are only a few serious cases of the disease in Xenia, the great majority of the cases being very light.

Prof. D. H. Barnes, superintendent of schools in Xenia township, also announces that the quarantine has been lifted in Xenia township and that the township schools will open next Monday.

Tells How to Stop a Bad Cough

Surprising results from this famous old home-made syrup. Easily prepared and costs little.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief. You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

GERMANY MUST SURRENDER

mand other than "surrender," so long as the Hohenzollerns remained power.

Whereas the president's previous efforts have thus far failed to induce the German people to rid themselves of the kaiser, the present note, some felt, tended to drive a wedge between Prussia on the one side and Bavaria and Saxony on the other. The kaiser was referred to as the "King of Prussia," and it pointed out that his power is still complete through control of 17 Prussian votes in the Bundesrat—enough to defeat any constitutional amendment.

Some observers here believed that Bavaria and Saxony who have felt strongly the kaiser's domination, may take steps to force his removal. This appeal was regarded as more potent than the previous efforts to stir up the German electorate as a whole. Declaration of an armistice is contingent upon the allies. If they are agreeable to the President's fourteen terms and later peace pronouncements, then their war chiefs may approve an armistice.

There is added discussion now on both sides of the water as to the unity of war aims. Hence, it is anticipated that as matters now stand, the allies are perhaps not entirely enthusiastic over the president's terms. He indicated as much when on September 27, he called upon the allied chancellors to come out in the open with their aims. However, the forthcoming diplomatic council is expected to clear away all fundamental differences of opinion, if they still exist.

Caesar's Wounds.

In a paper read before the French Academy of Medicine it was declared that although Julius Caesar received 35 wounds when he was murdered only one was fatal. After the first blows Caesar fainted and then his assailants struck at him repeatedly.

Get Out of the Rut Occasionally.

There is sometimes no harm, and often a bucketful of joy, in just being real foolish for a spell. And many a time it loosens up the strings of the heart to be extravagant, even, like the country boy at the circus who said: "I've got 15 cents, and I'm going to spend it all on peanuts, and I don't give a darn who knows it, nuther."

The Ohio War Board Says Today

Don't use "The Other Fellow" excuse as a release from your share of sacrifice and responsibility.

There is the man who thinks, because his neighbor across the street or next door is cheating the government by not living up to the regulations, that he can use that as an excuse for his own delinquency. He says he is perfectly willing to use only one teaspoon of sugar in his coffee, but he can't understand why "the other fellow" should disregard these rules.

Remember this, you who are using this excuse, that other fellows also are leaping from mud and blood-soaked parapets to face a shower of Hun bullets and to stop with their bodies the razored bayonets of the enemy. They are not looking around to see if the other fellow is going over the top with them.

SERBIANS MAKE FURTHER PROGRESS

London, October 24.—Serbian troops have made further progress toward their former capital, driving the Austro-Germans across the west Moravia river, 90 miles from Belgrade, the Serbian war office announced today.

"We crossed the West Moravia north of the village, taking three hundred prisoners."

TONNAGE SUNK IS ON THE DECREASE

London, October 24.—The total of British tonnage sunk by submarines during September was 151,593, according to figures made public by the admiralty.

The total of neutral and other allied shipping sunk was 88,007. The amount of merchant tonnage sunk by the enemy in September was lower than in any month since August, 1916, as was below the monthly average of 1916.

Most Valuable Garnets.

The oriental garnets are the most valuable and beautiful. They come principally from Pegu; and the town of Sirian having formerly been the chief mart for them, they are hence by corruption known among lapidaries by the appellation of Sirian-garnets. They appear to be the carbuncle of the ancients; their color is crimson, verging into a very red violet; they are transparent, and have a conchoidal fracture.

SMOKE THESE CONDITIONS IN YOUR PIPE MR. HUN

If the United States must deal with Germany's military masters and autocrats now or in the future, the United States will demand absolute surrender.

The United States and its allies must retain power to enforce any arrangement that may be entered into which would make it impossible for Germany to resume hostilities.

Military advisers of allied nations must fix terms of armistice.

Armistice must fully protect interests of all allied nations involved.

Unrestricted power of allied governments to safeguard and enforce terms to which Germany has agreed must be given.

Present internal reforms of Germany have not brought present war under control of people of Germany.

There is no evidence that the people of Germany have the means of forcing their military heads to obey popular will.

Power of king of Prussia has not been impaired by recent changes in Germany's internal system, and determining initiative still remains with former masters of Germany.

Allied nations cannot trust the word of those who have been masters of German policy.

The United States cannot deal with any but veritable representatives of German people.

"THAT'S YOUR HANDWRITING, ISN'T IT WILLIAM?"

When a man is in the intermediate state of being, too well for the hospital and not well enough for active service, where should he be sent? Home of course! That is where the French send their men on convalescent leave, the length of their leave varying with the nature of the injury. In the case of our own troops, there are a few obstacles in the way of this plan, including a sizable ocean for a handicap. Gen. Pershing cannot be expected to go hunting his men over a 6,000-mile golf links when it is time for them to play again. Therefore, it is obvious that those who are still likely to be wanted in the game cannot go home. But there is no visible objection to bringing "home" to them, or at least as good a substitute for home as can be found.

That is what the Red Cross is doing in its convalescent homes. A place is selected, or, as often happens, is donated, and the army is asked to pass upon the location. Then the management and equipment is assumed entirely by the Red Cross. All that the army supplies is the convalescents and the discipline. A Red Cross representative acts as resident manager and sees to it that the men are supplied with everything from a pack of cards to a bathing suit. As far as possible, all likeness to hospital life is avoided. Everyone knows how deadly dull the hospital routine is to a person well enough to be up and around. The atmosphere of these homes is more like that of a somewhat over-grown family. The men are left as free as army discipline permits. "Smokes" are passed around in plenty, and chocolate works overtime, as candy. Books, games, music, social evenings, football and baseball, and home-like surroundings give them at least a flavor of home life before their return to the grim business of putting William Hohenzollern & Co. out of business.

To complete the resemblance to a family, the housekeeper is always a motherly woman, usually American, who looks after their comfort and smooths out the countless little things that are like specks of dust in the machinery. Nobody notices them when they aren't there, but everything hitches when they are. The Red Cross now has six of these homes in operation, and is about to open the seventh. By spring, if all goes as planned, 25 or 30 will be in running order, with accommodations for about 5,000 men and officers. These, with the army convalescent homes, will probably be sufficient to meet the demand.

"I am the instrument of the Almighty. I am his agent. Woe and death to those who oppose my will." That's your own handwriting, isn't it, William? You brag about being the prince of woe and death. Now you look out upon a world you have drenched in blood—a world that holds you responsible for more misery, pain and human slaughter than that caused by all the human tyrants before you. You shame the devil in presumption in claiming to be the instrument of the Almighty, instead of the instrument of the Devil himself. Was it the ambassador of God who permitted the Lusitana massacre and then gloried in the act by a celebration and the striking of a medal to commemorate it?

From your own lips, William, we prove you to be a ferocious assassin, guilty of the horrible cruelties of which Germany stands convicted before the world—the mightiest outlaw that has ever cursed civilization. In utter shame you should shrink from the gaze of mankind, to be always remembered in contempt as "Bloody William."

FOOD NOTES

Supplied by Greene County
Food Commission

Eating any particular kind of food will not give any one the influenza. There is nothing in any food itself to foster the disease, but without proper care foods may serve as carriers of the germs.

Unwrapped bread, for instance, may carry the germs to your door. Fruit skins may be covered with bacteria. Bakery products exposed to the air and handled carelessly by salesmen, who take no sanitary precautions, may be the source of some one's serious illness.

Your maid, if she does not wash and scald the dishes properly, may be the cause of your downfall. Your cook, if she tastes and stirs with the same spoon, is a treacherous, albeit perhaps a well-intentioned, person to have around.

Know that your milkman is an honest and a sanitary man. Try to eat at restaurants which have been inspected and pronounced safe.

After you have taken those precautions, watch yourself and your diet. Now is the time to keep yourself in good health.

You owe it to your country to keep your physical efficiency at the highest possible pitch. See that you are getting plenty of bulky foods, green stuffs, fruits and vegetables. Remember that clean milk is one of the best friends you can have in the whole world of foods.

Fashions in Humor.

A lady once suggested "Alice in Wonderland" to a steady-going matron. The volume was soon returned with thanks and with the explanation that what was wanted was something "light," not all those puzzles. Unquestionably, there are fashions in humor.

"Smokes" are passed around in plenty, and chocolate works overtime, as candy. Books, games, music, social evenings, football and baseball, and home-like surroundings give them at least a flavor of home life before their return to the grim business of putting William Hohenzollern & Co. out of business.

To complete the resemblance to a family, the housekeeper is always a motherly woman, usually American, who looks after their comfort and smooths out the countless little things that are like specks of dust in the machinery. Nobody notices them when they aren't there, but everything hitches when they are. The Red Cross now has six of these homes in operation, and is about to open the seventh. By spring, if all goes as planned, 25 or 30 will be in running order, with accommodations for about 5,000 men and officers. These, with the army convalescent homes, will probably be sufficient to meet the demand.

Everyday Etiquette

Is it improper to take a second helping of anything when asked to do so and should one remove the knife and fork when passing the plate? questioned George.

"It is not at all improper to take a second helping. Your hostess will regard it as a compliment that you desire to do so. The knife and fork should not be removed from the plate, but should be laid on it side by side," was his father's advice.

BRIAN, TEMPTED, SPENDS THE EVENING WITH MOLLIE KING

CHAPTER LXX

Life is habit. Nothing more or less. Brian Hackett had formed the habit of considering himself of paramount importance. His pleasure, his comfort, his entertainment. So that when he vowed to behave himself and eat at home, he felt as if he were a martyr like those of old. That there was no one to appreciate his sacrifice, to tell him how good he was, took all the zest from the action.

He wanted to be patted on the back, not figuratively, but literally. He wanted to hear the "well done" he felt he deserved. So, although he went home to the delicious dinner Ruth had ordered and Rachel prepared for him, it was ashes in his mouth. After he had finished, he smoked a cigar. That too did not taste right. Perhaps because Ruth had not lighted it for him.

Then he tried to read. "Trash!" he muttered, as he turned the leaves of a late magazine. "How people expect a fellow to spend his time reading such stuff, I can't imagine."

Finally he declared he would take a walk. That his steps led to the drive, and that a Washington Square bus happened that moment to pass him, was simply a coincidence.

It would kill the time to ride down and back. Of course he would not get off the bus. It was a beautiful night and it would be hard to secure a seat.

Someway the cigar tasted all right now, and he puffed away contentedly. When the bus stopped at the end of the route, without any conscious objection in view, almost without volition, he got down with the rest of the people.

"I wonder if Mollie is at home," he said to himself, looking in the direction of her studio. Of course, had he intended to see her, he would have called from the house and found out if she were at home. But no such thought had come to him. But now that he was so near it would be a pity not to run in and see her for just a few minutes.

"Hello, Brian!" Mollie herself opened the door. "Misses away again?" she asked with a comical look and a smile.

"Yes, went this afternoon. Up-State somewhere. Why?"

"Oh, when the cat's away the mouse will play. And look up another mouse to play with him."

"Don't fool yourself," Brian replied, smiling at her nonsense. "I only came out for a ride. I'm going right back. But I thought if you were in, you might feel hurt if I were so near and didn't come in."

"You are pleased to be facetious tonight."

"I follow in your lead, fair lady."

So they chafed and laughed with, and at, each other. Brian enjoying himself hugely. Once or twice during the long, short to him, hours he spent in the studio, he thought regretfully of Ruth. She was a good girl and he was hardly fair. Especially when he kissed Mollie. But who could help it? She looked so provokingly pretty with her big-checked apron on, washing up the dishes she had made in preparing a welch rarebit for him.

He somehow wished Ruth would wear a checked apron and cook things for him at midnight. It would be terribly jolly. Then he straightway forgot that Ruth existed, while Mollie entertained him with the gossip of the village and her own plans for the coming fall and winter.

It was after one o'clock when he rose to go.

"I shall have no shred of reputation left if you stay so late," she had said to him. "But it is good to have you."

"And it is good to come," Mollie had given him just the adulation for which his soul hungered. When he described his lonely dinner with only old Rachel in the house she condoned with him as if he had no dinner at all instead of a delicious one. When he told of the lonely home to which he was doomed to go, she petted him and told him it was a shame that a domestic man should have married a woman who cared nothing for a home.

So that when Brian again mounted the bus he was in a beatific mood. The time had flown, he had been entertained, fussed over, praised and consoled. What more could man ask? Arrived at home, he found Ruth's telegram.

"If it wasn't so late I'd send her an answer," he yawned sleepily. "I'll do it in the morning," then went to bed to dream of Mollie in a checked apron making rarebits which cavorted all over the table, and which he vainly tried to catch. While, in a hotel, Ruth tossed and tumbled, sleepless, wondering if he had received her wire and if he had sent the evening at home, or with Mollie King.

Tomorrow—Brian and Mollie Are Unconscious That They Are Watched.

MOTORAIDS

The fullness is inserted in an unusual and attractive manner and the embroidery lends to it an elegance of appearance which every motor woman admires.

The "cache-nez" collar is now accepted by all smart motorists. This kind of a collar is a most convenient arrangement as it may be tucked away under the belt or buttoned to a rever or sleeve. The ends of the collar are very long and are finished either with tassels or fringe and are worn crossed in front or at the back and are then wound about the throat.

STORY OF THE PART TAKEN BY AMERICANS IN RECENT FIGHTING

With the British Armies in France, Oct. 24.—The story of the part the Americans played in the recent fighting has been obtained by a half day's journey into the wrecked country beyond the Hindenburg line.

The battle lasted three days, beginning at 5:20 Thursday morning, when, with the British on either side of them, the Americans attacked from the St. Souplet line on a front of nearly three miles, without artillery preparation. Tanks, manned by Americans were important factors. The position from which they attacked was on a ridge west of the La Selle river. Their objective was the ridges beyond, including a valley more than a mile wide. The river was from six to twenty feet wide and three feet deep. There were Germans behind the first ridges. Beyond the river were new trenches.

A heavy morning fog, Thursday hid the German machine guns and almost caused the tanks to lose their way. The German resistance was bitter. It began simultaneously with the attack when they let down a heavy barrage that lasted 36 hours. It included gas and was directed at St. Souplet and the line of villages on either side. Five German divisions, including the famous third naval and elements of six others, participated in the fighting along the American second corps front, of which the New Yorkers had the left wing, and the Carolina and Tennessee troops the right.

The first day the German naval division attacked from the right. The fighting was by moonlight at times.

Molain, St. Martin-Riviere and L'Arbre de Guise were captured the first day in a two mile advance. The river was waded in some places and in others was crossed by bridges built by the engineers.

At 7 o'clock the first day the engineers engaged in building bridges under shell fire, were embarrassed by prisoners who had surrendered to the tanks which had plunged on ahead.

On the second day the Germans held strongly until the middle of the afternoon when they broke and gave ground. The British, in the meantime, had passed Le Cateau on the northward.

The Americans took Ribeauville (two miles southeast of St. Souplet) and proceeded as far as Mazinghem, (a mile northeast of Ribeauville) which an officer entered by moonlight and found unoccupied. He reported back, whereupon a regiment marched in behind its commander as though on parade.

This gave the Americans the third ridge.

The three days fighting resulted in heavy German casualties from rifle fire as well as from the artillery. In a period of 13 days, only six of which were spent in actual fighting, these Americans advanced a total depth of 13 miles.

The entire second corps included the fourth division of the regular army; the Thirtieth (Wildcat) division of Tennessee, North and South Carolina and District of Columbia national guard. The 36th division of Missouri and Kansas National Guard, and the 77th New York and 82nd Georgia, Alabama and Florida National army men.

Two Discoveries.

A long time ago, a keen observer of human nature put on record his discovery that a small borrower never eaves the doorway of a bank without looking one way and walking the other. A rival of this observer has just turned up. His conclusion, after years of patient observation, is that one never sees a small boy and a brass band moving in opposite directions.—Christian Science Monitor.

Mother's Advice.

"Remember, my son," said his mother, as she bade him good-by, "when you get to camp try to be punctual in the morning, so as not to keep breakfast waiting."—Life.

HON. SIMEON D. FESS, M. C., OF OHIO Chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee

Representative Simeon D. Fess, Member of Congress from the 7th Ohio district, who is managing the campaign to elect a Republican Senate and House in the November elections, is a good example of the scholar in politics. He is a well-known educator and author, and has served in the House of Representatives from the 7th Ohio district for the past six years.

He is a graduate of the Ohio Northern University, both in the Academic and Law departments. He taught American History in his Alma Mater, was manager of the College of Law in the University, and later Vice-President. For four years he was connected with the University of Chicago, when he accepted the presidency of Antioch College, which he held for eleven years. Representative Fess for four years was editor of the "World's Events," and is the author of numerous well-known books, the most noted being the "History of American Political Theory."

In 1910 Representative Fess entered politics and represented Greene County in the Ohio Constitutional Convention, of which body he was Vice-President. He was chairman of the educational committee of that convention and headed the committee that framed the present initiative and referendum amendment. He was elected chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee by a unanimous vote of his colleagues.

Representative Fess was born in Allen County, Ohio, 57 years ago, and has three sons, two of whom are now serving under the Stars and Stripes.

Clarence H. Oliver was born July 3, 1893, near Bowersville, Greene County, Ohio. He moved to Xenia twelve years ago. He was united in marriage to Miss Hettie Brackett on July 1, 1916, and departed this life on Oct. 17, 1918. He leaves to mourn him, his wife, father, four brothers and one sister. In the short time that he lived in Xenia he made many friends, because of his kind, pleasant, lovable disposition. He was an honest, upright man and in his short life he was liked by all who had come in contact with him. He was a good husband, and will be greatly missed by his wife, friends and associates.

Y. M. C. A. TO FURNISH PLAN TO EDUCATE SOLDIERS IN FRANCE

Paris, Sept. 27.—(By Mail).—A plan has been formed to meet the problem of what shall be done with the United States soldiers in Europe between the time the war ends and the time they step on the transports, homeward bound.

This plan is now being worked out by the army educational commission of the Y. M. C. A., with the approval of the commander-in-chief and with the active support of President Wilson and Secretary Baker.

It calls for sending hundreds of thousands of the soldiers to school.

As the arrangements now stand, class rooms will be opened as soon as possible after the termination of hostilities, in every post, cantonment, rest camp or area with a constant population of over 500. Each school will be under a civilian instructor or an instructor selected from the officers or men of the American army.

In addition to these schools each area is to have a school offering vocational education and special technical branches.

To provide for higher branches of education, arrangements are being made to admit soldiers to European universities. In the selection of students to pursue advanced studies, special consideration will be given to men who interrupted their professional, technical university or collegiate courses who wish to enter.

The demobilization plan for university, professional and technical courses in European institutions provide for the attendance of officers and men at a moderate personal cost.

For this purpose leave of absence or furloughs will be granted to a limited number from each unit.

To make the new educational facilities available to men on duty at isolated points courses will be offered by correspondence.

As the plan is now worked out, over one thousand instructors from American schools and colleges will be brought to France to supplement the teachers available in the ranks of the army.

WHAT THE LATEST WAR MOVES MEAN

BY J. W. T. MASON.

New York, Oct. 24.—Renewal of American and French patrol activity along the Metz front and in Alsace may be the forerunner of new attacks by Gen. Pershing's command in those areas.

The progress of the Americans north of Verdun toward the Luxembourg border is impeded by the large number of German divisions that are being thrown into that sector to hold open Von Hindenburg's sole way of retreat from eastern France.

It is probable that along the 20 mile front occupied by the Americans, Von Hindenburg has concentrated twenty per cent of his active fighting units.

One reason why the Germans are able to maintain so strong a defense north of Verdun is the absence of any large activity disturbing to them in Alsace or along the Lorraine border. The Rhine is not for the moment threatened by direct assault. Therefore it is not necessary for the Germans to scatter their troops through Alsace-Lorraine.

A new attack toward the Rhine by the Americans would change the situation very quickly. The Germans therefore would be unable to concentrate so important a part of their field forces north of Verdun. They would have to spread their waning reserves over an extra hundred miles of threatened frontage south of Verdun and the possibility of a break through by the allies would be much increased.

Marshal Foch has doubtless not had the necessary number of fully trained Americans up to the present to undertake this new extension of the campaign. His major offensive efforts hitherto have been centered on hampering the German retreat from eastern France and Belgium and inflicting unprecedentedly heavy casualties. Now that the Germans are moving well back toward their own border a change in the allies' strategic plans must soon occur.

Unless the winter interferes the Rhine's turn to become a major objective is probably not far off.

NOTED 'CURE' FOR WOUNDED U. S. SOLDIERS

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Rome, Sept. 17. (By Mail)—The Italian government is completing installation of an American military hospital at the famous Italian springs of Montecatini, between Florence and Pisa.
Several leading hotels of the resort have been requisitioned, and American wounded from the Italian front will be taken there for convalescence.
The Italian government thus has followed in a general way the example set by France in taking the famous resort of Aix-les-Bains for an American hospital base in France.
Back of the choice of Montecatini for the American hospital base in Italy lies another important motive. It is desired to make the American medical profession and the public generally acquainted with the Montecatini springs, so that after the war Italy may begin sharp competition with the German spas.
Although the waters of Montecatini have been famous in Italy since the time of the early Romans, very little has been done to make them known abroad.
They are the only springs in the world that can compete in every way with those of Karlsbad and other German watering places to which hundreds of thousands of people used to flock from all parts of the world every year.
While the Montecatini springs have a large following among the Italian public generally, they have become a rather unique center for the Italian musical profession.
During the last 25 years of his life Verdi went every year to Montecatini for the usual two weeks "cure," and he died in the firm belief that the waters of the springs there had prolonged his life a quarter of a century.
Every square inch of Montecatini is redolent with memories and souvenirs of Verdi, and partly because of this and partly because of the value of the "cure" itself, Montecatini becomes every summer the great Mecca of Italian musicians. Leoncavallo, Puccini, Mascagni, Caruso, and Tetrassini take their "cure" there. Nearly always before leaving the stars give a benefit concert for something or other, in which Verdi music predominates. The half dozen orchestras at the various springs where the water is sipped play Verdi.

Vast plans have been completed for big casinos, pavilions, and water drinking palaces.
Because of the large number of hotels that have been requisitioned for the Americans, thousands of Italians were obliged to go without their "cure" this year. The musical colony, however, has been taken care of, and Tetrassini already has given her benefit concert and departed.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY ASKS ASSISTANCE

There is an opportunity for everyone, both young and old, to help our boys who have returned from the front, and who are convalescing in the hospitals in New Jersey.
Clippings from magazines and newspapers, including jokes, wit and humor, interesting stories, and facts, inspiring poetry, funny cartoons or serials, as "Bringing in Father," are needed by the Sunshine Society, who will make up scrap books and card board sheets to help our boys who are in the hospitals.
Word has come from Dr. R. P. McClellan, who is located in the hospital work in Hoboken, N. J., to Mrs. Houston Cherry, County Sunshine President, that bringing this form of cheer to sick and wounded soldiers will be greatly appreciated by both officers and enlisted men. This form of cheer will be distributed by Dr. McClellan and Mr. Harry Wilkinson, who has charge of all Red Cross activities in this very important hospital.
It will be deeply appreciated by the Sunshine Society if every one will help along this line and save clippings. Nothing sad or related to the war is wanted. The thought is to help these boys forget the horrible things they have encountered.
All clippings and short stories can be left at the W. E. Boring Book Store on Detroit street, or at L. S. Jones' Wallpaper Store on Greer street.
When clippings in paper, leaving Tat, and mark "for Sunshine Society." All clippings of stories should be fastened together.
The Sunshine Society will meet in its club house once a week as soon as meetings are permitted, and the society will appreciate the help from anyone who wish to offer their services in this work.

GOLF IN CANADA THE WHOLE YEAR ROUND

On the Tee at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea

It is almost as necessary to keep up the morale of the great citizen army at home as it is to keep up the morale of the army of fighters at the front. That is why theaters are open, why baseball has its devotees, and why golf is still played. The men who support the Liberty Loans, and the Victory Loan, also the Red Cross and other great war activities, need exercise and amusement to keep them running at top speed in the great game of business. The golfers of the United States and Canada have given vast sums to the Red Cross; ambulances bearing the names of clubs are in service at home and abroad, and golfers have not only given freely of their money, but hundreds of them have died in the armies of Great Britain, Canada, France, and the United States. More than 3,500 golfers in Canada have gone overseas to fight, and more than 200 of them have made the supreme sacrifice.

It may be news to some golfers that in British Columbia a golfer can pursue his favorite sport the whole year around. There are no winter-killed greens in Victoria, or Vancouver. The Victoria Golf Club was established in 1893, and its seaside links at Oak Bay constitute one of the finest tests of golf in Canada. In addition to this course, Victoria has the Colwood Golf and Country Club, one of the finest inland golf courses in America and the United Service Club, a very good nine-hole course.

The city of Vancouver is also a golf center with several clubs, notably the Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club, an eighteen-hole course well trapped and bunkered. This course is named in honor of Lord Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is himself an ardent golfer. Other excellent clubs at Vancouver are the Jericho Country Club and the Vancouver Golf and Country Club.

There are scores of other splendid golf clubs in Canada, including The Royal Montreal Golf Club, which was established in 1873, fifteen years before the St. Andrews Golf Club, Yonkers, N. Y., was opened as the first golf club in the United States.

ONLY ONE CRITICAL CASE OF PNEUMONIA AT WILBERFORCE NOW

While new cases of influenza continue to develop daily among the students of the army training units and the academic students at Wilberforce University, there is only one critical case of pneumonia. Commodore Percy Williams, of Richmond, Va., a 16-year old academic student is lying at the point of death. The lad has been in a critical state for several days.

Three new cases of influenza were received at the hospital Wednesday three Thursday morning, and eight were taken in Tuesday. Patients are being discharged every day. The majority of the cases are mild.

Lieutenant George H. Flanders, army dentist at Wilberforce, continues critically ill of pneumonia, but it is now thought his chances of recovery are better.

Roman Soldiers' "Smokes."

Records recently discovered show that the Roman soldiers in Caesar's time had their pipes. Of course they knew nothing about real tobacco, as that had not at that period been discovered. However, they did have pipes and they smoked lavender and hemp, and from all accounts they liked it and it served almost the same purpose. In fact, it is said to have been a great solace and stimulus to the soldiers.

Written Before Christ.

All the books of the Old Testament were written long before the birth of Christ, some of them as much as 1,400 years before, others from 500 to 1,000 years before, and none less than 300 to 400 years before. The Gospels and other books of the New Testament were written from 33 to 60 or 70 years after the birth of Christ.

"There's a Reason"

The Much Abused Goat.

In song and joke, through all the ages the goat has had most of the left-handed compliments. All that the goat has done to redeem his character counts for nothing. The most fashionable men and women wear on their feet and hands the skin of the kid. The finest of shawls, some of the most popular winter garments, are the product of these flocks. Dainty children are fed with the milk of the goat, and it produces the finest of cheese. But there are few good words for the benefactor.—Vancouver Province.

FARM LABOR SURVEY DISCLOSES SOME INTERESTING FACTS

The farm labor survey which has just been completed for the whole of Greene County brings out some very interesting facts. The farmers of the county who took the time to do the work deserve the thanks of the county. The fact that these men did the work in a very busy season is evidence of the interest and intelligence in the present labor situation.

The purpose of this survey was to obtain data which would enable the district draft board on the exact labor situation in the county and the survey in this county is one of a state wide Farm Bureau movement to obtain similar information.

The survey called for the acreage and kind of crops each farmer is growing and also for the number and kinds of livestock kept on the farm. The amount of regular help and the number of days additional help required during the season was asked for from each farmer.

With this information at hand the surplus or shortage of labor was figured out on the basis of productive days work.

A productive work day is simply a day's work spent in productive labor on the farm. Only those days spent in growing crops or in taking care of animals are counted in and the total number of productive days work each farmer can turn out during the year serves as the basis of his efficiency.

The amount of productive days work required to grow and harvest an acre of crops or take care of live stock is as follows:

Corn, 5 days; wheat, oats, rye or clover seed, 2 days; potatoes, 10 days; hay, 1 day for each cutting; dairy cows, 15 days; beef cattle, 2 days; hogs, 1-2 days; sheep, 1-2 days; poultry, 15 days per hundred birds.

In other words it takes 5 days work each year of 10 hours each to grow and harvest an acre of corn. Figure out your own productive days work.

This survey brought out the fact that there are men in the county all alone on 100 acres or more who have been able to hire only a small amount of labor during the year.

Take one striking example: one man 57 years old, on a 175 acre farm, grew this year 50 acres of corn, 60 acres of wheat, 13 acres of oats, 15 acres of hay, took care of 9 cows, 7 other cattle and 111 hogs. This figure out 616 productive days work. He has hired 60 days and his daughter has helped him the equivalent of 60 days, making 120 days in all, leaving him 506 productive days work in a year of only 313 days. Efficient labor, it is true, but a pace no man can stand. This condition holds true on a number of farms throughout the county.

The case of each farmer in the county was summed up in this manner. Those farmers who are on 80 acres or more of land and who are reported as doing well up to 350 or more productive days work each year were listed as needing an extra man. The number of farms so listed in the county is 167, more than any one imagined. Where a farmer has hired day labor this year in excessive amount, say five or six months he has been listed as needing a man.

On the other hand a few farms in the county have surplus labor. When father and son are both at home on a small farm and where both are able to work, if the combined productive days work of the two men does not run well up above 300 we have listed them as having a surplus man and there a surplus man and have subtracted this man from the total labor wanted. What the draft board wants is that every farm shall run, but that it shall run as efficiently and with as little surplus labor as possible.

Farms of less than 80 acres which are in most cases one man farms, were shown by this survey to need about 30 days extra help in rush seasons. This can be obtained by hiring day labor or by exchanging work as is done in many cases. The fact that our rotations are so constituted that nearly every farmer in the county needs help at rush seasons is a condition that the draft board should be familiar with.

What our farmers need in the way of labor therefore is regular help men who would be in class 2 in the draft. This survey brings out forcibly the fact that the efficiency of some farms in the county has been lowered by lack of labor. And to the end that the production of food may not lag behind other war work this survey was taken.

Through this means the children can become familiar with all that is best in music, either vocal or instrumental; they can learn not only the music but about the composers, and the great men and women who sing and play various instruments.

Not Sure It Was Error.

On one occasion Bishop W. A. Candler was advocating a more liberal loosening of the purse strings, and told his audience that several years ago he sent an article to a paper, in which he said, "We pray too loud, and work too little." The compositor, consciously or unconsciously, perpetrated a little joke, for when the article appeared it read, "We pray too loud, and work too little." "I let it go at that," said the bishop. "The fact is, I believe the printer was right, and I have never ventured to correct him."

OVER 200 CASES OF INFLUENZA AT O. S. & S. O. HOME

With over 200 cases of influenza in the hospital, temporary infirmaries and convalescent wards, the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' Orphans' Home is today in the midst of the worst epidemic in its history since diphtheria swept the institution in 1888.

Fortunately the malady is afflicting the children of the institution in a mild form, and there is only one case of pneumonia, that of Frances Dyeus, who was stricken with that ailment Tuesday night, after being admitted to the hospital. She was said to be holding her own today.

None of the adults at the institution have yet been stricken, and they are valiantly rallying to the situation and giving all the help possible in caring for the sick and handling the unusual situation that has arisen.

As the result of an emergency call sent out in this city and in Dayton Wednesday night, 3 trained nurses arrived at the Home Thursday night and materially lightened the burden which was borne by Miss Lu Elmore, Mrs. J. P. Elton and the matrons and teachers, who are serving as volunteer nurses. Miss Mabel Collins of this city and the Misses Williams and Bentz, who have been nursing at Wright field answered the emergency call for nurses. The Misses Williams and Bentz nursed at Wright field throughout the influenza epidemic which has subsided there and they were secured to nurse the sick children at the Home through an appeal made by Dr. W. A. Galloway to Bernis Brien of Dayton, member of the board of trustees of the Home.

Dr. Galloway is bearing virtually alone, the burden of giving medical attention to the influenza victims at the Home. With Dr. Warren C. Hewitt, resident physician at the Home himself a victim of pneumonia, the institution was in a serious condition when the epidemic struck its little inmates. Xenia physicians, whom the army has not taken, are overburdened, and have been working night and day in this city, owing to the two epidemics of typhoid and influenza, which have stricken the town.

Dr. Galloway was one of the doctors who fell ill as a result of overwork, and he has been out of bed only about a week.

Under the direction of Superintendent and Mrs. J. P. Elton, five cottages, Nos. 12, 14, 20, 29 and 30, and the domestic science school auditorium, have been converted into hospital wards, while convalescent wards for boys and girls have been fitted out in the school auditorium.

The epidemic is simply sweeping the institution. Children are falling ill one after another, and they are being taken to the hospital wards often in bunches of a dozen or more.

The trying situation is being handled with excellent judgment, and there is no panic at the institution as a result of the sudden tide of illness which has swept down upon the Home. Gauze masks in abundance had been made at the institution in readiness for such an epidemic, and every appliance and equipment necessary to successfully fight the malady, and give the little patients every care necessary is to be had at the Home. More workers and more nurses are needed.

Children are being isolated from their companions and taken to the hospitals as soon as they show the least symptoms of the malady, and Mrs. Elton is hopeful that the onrush of the epidemic can be stopped before it has stricken the majority of the 700 children in the institution.

RATE SCHEDULE FOR WATER IS RECALLED BY THE COMMISSION

City Manager Riddle received a letter Thursday from the Public Utilities Commission recalling the schedule of rates for the Xenia Water Company, which was received by the City Manager, Wednesday.

The letter from the Utilities Commission stated that some serious omissions had been made in the schedule sent to Xenia and that it would have to be revised.

The nature of the revision was not revealed by the commission.

Indian Superstition.

A student of Indian customs relates that among the Seneca tribes was one remarkable for its beauty. When a maiden died the Indians imprisoned a young bird until it first began to try its powers of song, and then loading it with messages and caresses they loosed its bonds over her grave in the belief that it would not fold its wings nor close its eyes until it had flown to the spirit land and delivered its burden of affection.

GERMAN WOMEN OPERATE MACHINE GUNS AGAINST AMERICANS

Machine gun crew of German women.

Many stories from the front have told of German women being forced to do much of the work for the German army and of their being forced to man the guns. The above picture was taken from the body of the German soldier on the left. His body was found July 28 about fifteen miles from Chateau-Thierry, where Company F of one of the U. S. divisions was advancing through heavy machine gun fire. The three women in the picture were at the time operating a machine gun against the advancing Americans under armed guard. It is stated also that these three women were captured.

THIRD MEMBER OF CLIFTON FAMILY DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia claimed the third member of the Littler family at Clifton, when Mrs. Howell Littler died at 5:30 Thursday morning, a victim to the scourge which attacked every person in her household.

Mrs. Littler's infant was the first to succumb and it was buried a week ago last Monday. Her mother, Mrs. Katherine Shaffer, who went to nurse the stricken family, herself fell victim to the malady, and she was buried last Sunday.

Howard Littler, the father, and the five remaining children were ill, but the father was obliged to get on his feet to nurse the remaining members of his stricken family.

Mrs. Littler was 32 years of age. Her husband and five children, four daughters and one son survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

MARCUS SHOUP, JR., YOUNGEST STUDENT IN CONSERVATORY

The youngest violinist in the artist class of the famous master Ysaye, at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music this year, is Marcus Shoup, Jr., who succeeded in passing the rigorous test required and receiving the favorable report from the judges which entitled him to make the class.

Marcus began his studies about a week ago, and will make several trips to the city each week for the purpose of taking his lesson. The lad is only 15 years old, and by far the most youthful artist in Ysaye's class. He has studied for three years in New York under the Belgian violinist, Fritz Mosin, who is from the same Belgian school as is Ysaye. Owing to the unusual opportunity to have the best study this year under Ysaye, in Cincinnati, his parents decided not to return him to New York for his music studies this winter.

Miss Katherine Shoup is also pursuing her voice studies this winter at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, under Dr. Perry Lulek.

Soul That Is Truly Great.

Emerson, that greatest of modern philosophers, has told us that it is easy when in a crowd to allow ourselves to be swayed by the opinions about us and comparatively easy to keep our individuality and sweetness when alone, but that the great soul is he who in the midst of a mass of other individuals can still keep the peace and sweetness of solitude.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramping or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you want. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

LET MARSHAL FOCH REPLY TO THE GERMANS

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.

Paris, October 23.—(Night)—Let Marshal Foch and the allied leaders reply to Germany.

That sums up the opinion here regarding the latest German note to President Wilson.

Otherwise, both the press and the public are curiously divergent. Some consider the note a clumsy, though virtual surrender; some think that it is a step forward.

Others say it is a mere trap; but everybody seems to agree that Germany's situation, both internal and military is such that a respite is absolutely necessary, and therefore, that the next words to Berlin ought to be from Foch.

"It is a great pity that Marshal Foch has not already been authorized to send the following ultimatum on behalf of the entire entente," declares La Liberté.

"Acceptance integrally by 'yes or no.'"

The Temps says:

"More than ever Marshal Foch ought to be given the lead."

Military and naval chiefs and American circles, primly comment on part of the note which otherwise is overlooked here, namely, Germany's backdown on unrestrained U-boat warfare, which was the direct cause of America's entry into the war.

Americans say it comes too late.

Competent observers insist that Germany stands alone against the allies. Austria-Hungary and Turkey, already are out of the running, they say, and her own population is split up on internal questions.

The almost unanimous quest of peace put her between the devil and the deep sea of capitulation or revolution.

It is believed that both are merely a question of time, although the allied armies may yet be forced to strike the hardest blow of all.

EAST END NEWS

Funeral services of Mrs. Blanch Shoecraft were held Tuesday at the house. The services were very brief, conducted by Rev. A. M. Howe, her pastor, assisted by Rev. G. W. Beeton. The beautiful white couch was surrounded by a mass of flowers, sent by sorrowing friends. The members of the church to which she was so faithful, sent a design, "The Gates Ajar." There was also a basket of roses from her grandfather of Toledo, Ohio. A large number of friends gathered to pay their last respects to a classmate and friend. She will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

Martha Ann Thomas, the little daughter of Mrs. Sandy Watson, is ill with the grip.

Mrs. Cora Kelsey, who has been very ill, is slowly improving.

Theresa Pearl Shoecraft, infant daughter of Mr. Walter Shoecraft, died Tuesday night and was buried Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Shoecraft, the child's mother, was buried Tuesday afternoon.

Cottage No. 21, O. S. & S. O. Home, which is in charge of Mrs. J. Powell, matron, was presented with a beautiful service flag the first Sunday in this month, the gift of Mrs. Albert Kern, whose husband is a member of the Home Board of Trustees. The flag contains seven stars, six blue ones and one gold one. The gold star is set in honor of Antonio Bailey, a former pupil of that cottage, who was recently killed in action with the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

Know What You Want.

Do you know what you want most of all in life? Most people imagine they have an object in life, but some have never found out what it is. The first essential to getting what you want is to know what you want, and the second is to want it enough. Purposes so vague that they cannot be defined, wishes so faint that they do not inspire to sacrifice are not factors in the successful life.
